

Baby cows are called calves. Calves are born each year on farms and ranches where they live with their mothers.