

Mountain Laurel

- utensils could be made from the shrub's wood. This may be why Native Americans called it spoon wood.
- clusters of light pink or white flowers bloom in May and June.
- it was made the state flower of Pennsylvania on May 5, 1933.