

RaisingOurKids.com

When the International Space Station is finished, people from many different countries will take turns living and working in space.