

The Pilgrims might have perished if not for the kindness and assistance given by the native north american people