

Piñata: In Mexico, a piñata is a clay container or cardboard and papier-mâché figure filled with small toys, treats and candies. The piñata is broken with a pole or stick and the treats shared. Piñatas are believed to have originated with the Mayans and Aztecs.