

Baltimore Oriole

- The diet of an oriole consists of flower nectar, fruit and some insects.
- In 1894, Baltimore's major league baseball team was named after the oriole.
- Baltimore Orioles lay 3-6 whitish-blue eggs with dark markings in a nest made of grass and bark.
- The Baltimore Oriole was adopted as Maryland's state bird in 1947.