

They offered them land, money, and a new house if they would settle.