

Kit Fox

©Sheri Amsel • www.exploringnature.org

Kit foxes live in open prairie, plains and desert areas in western North America and south into Mexico. They are one of the smallest foxes in North and South America with very large ears that help cool them. They are active mostly at night when temperatures are cooler (nocturnal) and can run up to 25 mph (40 km/h).