

The Fermi Gamma-ray Space Telescope orbits Earth watching the sky with its gamma-ray eyes. Gamma-rays are the highest-energy form of light and come from some of nature's weirdest objects.