

The swan takes her babies out into the pond to teach them to swim. They have big webbed feet which move like paddles in the water. They like to circle around the water lilies.

