

Do you love watching movies? The person who decides how the actors perform their roles is someone you never actually see on the screen—this is the job of the Film Director. The director shapes the “creative vision” of the movie, as well as making decisions about lighting and sound and other technical aspects. She decides how each scene will be set up and may write the screenplay for the movie as well.