

Green Treefrogs (Hyla cinerea). These frogs are bright green, and have sharply defined white side stripes. They prefer to walk rather than jump (unless fleeing a predator), and can be found in large choruses of several hundred. During the day they frequently sleep on the undersides of leaves.