

In Norse mythology, trolls are said to dwell in isolated mountains, rocks, and caves. They are frequently described as being extremely old, very strong, but slow and dimwitted. They are said to turn to stone in the sunlight and to be destroyed by lightning.